

DEEP FOREST: A Novel of the Indiana Frontier

A centennial publication of The Society of Indiana Pioneers and Hawthorne Publishing

Reserve your copy today! Take advantage of the 10% discount for Society members.

To honor the bicentennial of Indiana and centennial of The Society of Indiana Pioneers, the Society is sponsoring publication of a “lost historical novel” by a former leader of the Society. Attorney and historian Emsley W. Johnson, Sr. was Society president from 1940 to 1946. This intriguing story draws on experiences of his ancestors and relates challenges and triumphs of settlers between 1811 and 1861. The manuscript was recently found among old family papers, has been edited by historical writer Nancy Niblack Baxter, and is an official Legacy Project of the Indiana Bicentennial Commission. Order your copy now to be shipped after the book’s release October 15. Proceeds go to The Society of Indiana Pioneers.
